

After several failed attempts to pull together a webpage "in house" we contracted Geared Media to pull together a website for the church. Laci has been easy to work with. She has been very quick about accommodating all of our requests and changes. We are quite pleased with the layout, the guidance Laci has provided and the ease with which a visitor can move around the website. We have received many positive comments about the website. Laci has captured the essence of church. I would recommend Geared Media without reservation to anyone needing help in building a website.
